

What to do this weekend

Posted by Courtney Hollands July 1, 2010

Fireworks at Old Sturbridge Village: Last year, some visitors came from England, France, and Ireland to see this display. You're lucky you have a shorter commute to see the show, and there's more: Fourth of July festivities feature sack races, pie-eating contests, magic shows, music, Lucky Bob the Comedic Juggler, and the "Patriotic Fashion Contest" (aha, that's why folks come across the pond.). Bring a picnic or purchase food there. 6-10 p.m. (fireworks start at dusk; rain date July 5). $15, free under 3. Reservations are recommended. Old Sturbridge Village, 1 Old Sturbridge Village Road, Sturbridge. 800-733-1830. osv.org
